Morrison Cohen LLP Launches Family Office Group

New York – April 25, 2018 – Morrison Cohen LLP today announced the launch of its new Family Office Group, which will offer a multidisciplinary approach to serve the ever-changing needs of the firm’s single- and multi-family office clients and their individual family members.

“The firm has a long history of representing family offices across our highly regarded practice areas,” Morrison Cohen Chairman David Scherl said. “Formalizing this multidisciplinary practice will enhance our representation of our current clients by deepening our team approach and targeting our skills for this unique industry and attract new clients looking for a collaborative approach.”

Co-chaired by Darcy M. Katris and David P. LaGalia, the Family Office Group brings together attorneys from the firm’s Private Investment Fund, Mergers and Acquisitions, Individual Client Services, Real Estate, Labor and Employment, Intellectual Property, and Litigation and Arbitration practices.

Morrison Cohen is in position to offer family offices a full complement of services seamlessly among its various practice areas. The firm closely collaborates with investment advisors, financial planners, accountants and other professionals, enabling family offices to develop and implement appropriate and tax-effective strategies for asset management, business succession planning, and the transmission of wealth to subsequent generations.
